

Katheline Schubert is a Professor at University Paris 1-Panthéon-Sorbonne and Paris School of Economics. She graduated from Ecole Centrale Paris and earned her PhD in economics from University Paris 1. She serves on the French High Council for Climate and the French Economic Council for Sustainable Development, and was past-president of the French Economic Association.

Her research focuses on environmental economics, natural resources, dynamic macroeconomics, and sustainable growth, with recent work on climate economics and energy transition. She has published in journals including the American Journal of Agricultural Economics, Energy Journal, Journal of Economic Theory, and European Economic Review.