

Dr. Kwame Adjei-Mantey is an economist and research fellow at the Institute of Statistical, Social and Economic Research (ISSER), University of Ghana, Legon, Accra. He holds a PhD in Economics from the Graduate School of Economics, Kobe University, Japan. His research interests are in the areas of energy economics, economics of natural resources and the environment and development economics. He is a former visiting fellow at the Cornell University and former research fellow at the Future Africa Institute at the University of Pretoria, and is a visiting scholar at Kyoto University, Japan. He has led and participated in several research projects on energy poverty, energy transition, climate governance and inequality in Ghana. His recent publications have appeared in Energy Policy, Environment and Development Economics, Energy for Sustainable Development and Global Environmental Change.